THE DRAUGHT

THE ORIGINAL

LIVER MEDICINE

A yellow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Theodora's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reformed by Theodora's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Theodora's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.

I have used Theodora's Black-Draught for three years and have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

THE RESULTS OF A JOKE

(Original.)

Tom Shafro was always trying to be facetious.

Tom's facetiousness cost him so many friends that he was finally reduced to but one man, who stuck to him. This was Albertus Whitehead.

Whitehead was an exemplary young man with an exemplary young wife. The Whiteheads were members of St. Andrew's church, and Burt was always on hand Sunday nights to show strangers to seats and pass the plate.

Mrs. Whitehead before her marriage had made it an indispensable condition that the man she married should be a good churchman, and as she considered her church the only true church Burt was obliged to be confirmed before he became her husband.

Shafro was quite intimate with the Whiteheads, counting Mrs. Whitehead one of his closest friends, as well as her husband. Frequently when Burt was detained late at the office Tom would keep his wife company. One night Tom called at the Whiteheads' about 10 o'clock, and though he remained till 12, the husband did not return.

"You needn't look for Burt till 3 o'clock in the morning," said Tom.

"Why not?" asked the wife, looking up surprised.

"Why, this is the night of the French ball. Burt is undoubtedly there."

Now, every one who lives in New York knows that the French ball or annual gathering given by the Cercle Francaise is a masquerade composed of elements and productive of antics rendering it an unfit place for one occupying a high place in the church. Mrs. Whitehead looked shocked and was about to make an indignant reply when she remembered Tom's proclivity for facetiousness. She simply looked grave and said nothing. Shafro, seeing that the lady declined to be jolled on so serious a subject, turned it and began to talk of other matters. Soon after he took his leave.

At 3 in the morning Whitehead put his night key into the lock and let him self in softly, thinking that his wife was asleep and not wishing to disturb her. To his surprise, she was sitting in the library.

"Why, my precious darling, what are you doing up at this time?"

"It is a wife's duty to bear her husband's burdens with him. If you must work so late, I decline to rest in a luxurious bed."

"It's very lovely of you, but unnecessary."

"What was the nature of your work tonight?"

"An error in the cash. I was obliged to find it or carry it over, which would have made it all the worse."

"By the bye, did you know that this is the night of the French ball?"

"French ball?" Whitehead started.

"Yes."

"What do you know about the French ball?"

"I know that it is an improper ball for my husband to attend."

"I? My dear, so you accuse me of such a thing?"

"I have been told that you were there."

Whitehead caught at the back of a chair for support.

"Who told you such a thing?"

"One of your intimate friends."

"How did he know?"

"That doesn't matter. Burt, I am ashamed of you, a man of your position. And to think that you should have so deceived me! I shall never have any confidence in you again."

Mrs. Whitehead took out her handkerchief, wiped her eyes and, rising, went upstairs. There was weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth between the Whiteheads not only that night, but for nights and days to come.

The next afternoon Shafro saw Whitehead coming down the street and had a joke ready for him. What was his surprise to see Whitehead pass him with his head in the air. Shafro hurried after him.

"What in the world's the matter, Burt? Have you gone blind?"

"I have always supposed," replied the other angrily, "that you had the decency not to give a man away to his own wife."

"I give you away to your wife? I never did any such thing."

"You did it last night."

"Last night? How?"

"You informed my wife that I was at the French ball."

"You told the French ball? Who would believe that you would go to such a place? Certainly not I. Now I remember I did say something of the sort as a joke."

"Joke or no joke, I was at the French ball. I was masked, and no one would have known it if it hadn't been for your contemptible give away. Good morning."

And with a short Whitehead broke away from Shafro and their friendship came to a termination.

The end is not yet. Mrs. Whitehead, who had a conscience like a poker, decided that her husband was not in a spiritual condition to go to the communion table. All her troubles were divided into two classes, the one for her doctor, the other for her pastor. This was for her pastor. She confided the whole affair to him. The pastor invited the delinquent to his study, and told him that the offense must go to the vestry. When Whitehead met the vestry, he regretted the matter, especially as he had intended subscribing $500 for the chimes, whereupon the vestry decided that the French ball was not (necessarily) a place interdicted to a churchman.

The Whiteheads remained at home the next summer and saved money to pay the subscription.

ALEXANDER R. SHERMAN.

CONTROL OF CIRCUMSTANCES

(Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company.)

Billy Burton, alias "Kid" Burton, was facing a situation that even he philosopher though he was, admitted was unpleasant. Indicted for murder in the first degree, with a chain of circumstantial evidence that was without a flaw, locked securely in a newly built jail, with no means of escape and no pal within a thousand miles to furnish such means, it was but natural that he should mutter to himself that he had "gone de pace and must walk de plank for it." Yet he accepted his fate with stoicism that was admirable. Always expecting arrest and dreading detection, he had come to consider that the events which constituted his life must naturally and necessarily terminate upon the gallows. And now that the blow had fallen he accepted it resignedly.

The door swung open, and John Narvall, attorney at law, stepped inside. The warden locked the door and left them together.

For a moment each man stood measuring the other. Narvall saw a man of great physical strength, whose better nature had been warped by circumstances. Burton saw a slight, athletic man of perhaps twenty-three or twenty-four, with pale, aristocratic features and an inscrutable countenance. Burton was in the presence of a superior and realized it.

These two were representatives of the extremes of society.

"I don't feel you, guv'ner, to see what you could do for me. You see, it's like this: I'm slightly up against it dis time and"—began Burton, but Narvall stopped him.

"Wait and let me state your case to you. You are indicted for murder in the first degree. The evidence is all against you, and you haven't a single witness. The indictment states that you administered poison to your late employer, Mr. Hanford. The poison was nitric acid, and the prosecuting attorneys have in their possession half a bottle of the acid left which will be introduced as evidence."

"Dat's straight, guv'ner."

"And, now, will you pay me $3,000 if I have you acquitted?"

"Don't jolly me, guv'ner. You know it can't be did. I've got de swag all right, but, say, swag don't go wid dat judge nor wid de jury dat's to try me. I knows."

"I don't bribe judges and juries," said Narvall coldly. "Will you pay me that fee?"

"Yes, but say—"

"Then that closes our business. And, now, listen. I will not see you again until your case comes up for trial. It is set for next Wednesday, six days from today. No matter what you do at that trial, you are not to show surprise." Narvall turned and called to the warden.

"Just er minute, guv'ner. Do you b'lieve I'm guilty?"

"The judge and jury will decide that. My duty is not to determine whether or not you are guilty, but to establish your innocence." He turned and walked out.

The six days passed by slowly to Burton. At times he thought that after all Narvall must have been "jolly" him, but in the end the first impression of him still remained.

At last the day for which his trial was set arrived. He was taken into the courtroom and his case called. The jury was drawn and impaneled and the witnesses for the state were examined. Every lot of the testimony was against Burton. When the state solicitor rose to make the opening argument, the net of circumstances that surrounded Burton was without a broken strand. Not a man on the jury doubted that he was guilty. The state solicitor ended with a smile of triumph. This would be one more conviction to his credit.

Then Narvall rose. He was slightly paler than usual, but a faint smile hovered about the corners of his mouth.

"If it please your honor and gentlemen of the jury, in the face of such evidence as has been introduced I have but one argument to make. They tell you that deceased died from the effects of half the contents of this bottle, administered by the defendant. He picked up the little vial and looked at it thoughtfully. "And now, gentlemen, if that be so it must necessarily follow that the remaining contents will have the same effect upon a human being as the other half is alleged to have had. This, I assert, it will not do." Every ear was strained to catch his speech; every eye was fixed on Narvall's cold, inscrutable face. No one saw the small capsule that slipped from between Narvall's fingers into the vial.

"Yes, in spite of the fact that learned chemists have testified to the contrary. I say that this is not poison. And now for the proof!" He raised the vial to his lips, and before the astonished attorney, who sprang forward, could reach him he had drained every drop.

A low murmur of horror went up from the crowd without the bar. A stillness as of death reigned for a few moments and was broken by the calm collected voice of Narvall:

"Gentlemen, if within half an hour I am dead of course the defendant is guilty; otherwise you can but acquit him."

An hour later, when the jury had brought in a verdict of "not guilty," Burton pressed forward and extended his hand to Narvall. The latter stared at it coldly.

"I guess you're right, guv'ner," said Burton. "You're a gentleman."

A Mystic Volume.

A good story is told of the Russian police, who are very careful lest any literature of an atheistic character shall fall into the hands of the peasants.

A peasant in the province of Minsk went to a publisher's shop and asked for a Bible. Unluckily the shopman gave him an atheistic primer.

On opening the book when he reached home, the peasant was surprised to find it full of mystic signs and hieroglyphics. The peasant showed it to a policeman, who felt convinced that the signs were of an "extremely freethinking character," and so arrested the owner.

At the trial the peasant was discharged, and the policeman, instead of being rewarded for his religious zeal, was reprimanded.

Oil of Rattlesnakes.

In Pennsylvania the oil of rattlesnakes is preserved most carefully as a liniment especially good for sore joints and for rheumatism. In procuring the oil the dead snake is nailed head and tail to a board and cut open. The fat is taken out and laid upon a cloth in the hot sun, from which the filtered oil drips into a jar. From fear that the reptile may have bitten itself the clear oil is tested by dropping a portion of it into milk. If it floats in one globe, it is regarded as unadulterated; if, on the other hand, it breaks into beads and curdles the milk, it is judged to be poisonous and thrown away.

He Knew Some Costly Ones.

In order to discourage the use of objectionable words, says the Chicago Post, the father had evolved a system of fines, somewhat after this fashion:

Hang it, 1 cent.

Darn it, 2 cents.

Gosh, 3 cents.

Gosh darn it, 5 cents.

The boy who was to be reformed by this method studied the tariff with considerable interest, but it was some time before he spoke.

"Well," he said at last, "I guess I know some words that would cost a quarter!"

To Clean Nickel Clocks.

Cheap nickel clocks that have proved their convenience through much popular use play tricks with their timekeeping occasionally for want of cleaning. This fault may be quickly remedied with naphtha. The backs should be unscrewed and the works taken out and immersed in the fluid, a treatment that will speedily restore their service unless some more radical defect than dust is the trouble.

THE SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

Sonoma, Sonoma County, Cal., March 14, 1903.

H. H. GRANICE, Editor.

Why are the City Financial Reports Being Suppressed?

A State law requires that the City Trustees cause to be made and published an annual financial statement showing the receipts and disbursements of the municipality for each fiscal year ending June 30th. In compliance with this law this is done in every incorporated town and city in California, if we except Sonoma.

Up to June 30, 1891, this law had been strictly observed by our City Trustees. Since that time, however, the people have been kept in darkness in regard to the city's finances.

Since J. E. Poppe, President of the Board of City Trustees, assumed the duties of his position last May and appointed among other committees a Finance Committee, the regular yearly financial report has been suppressed from the columns of the city official paper.

Had the law been followed out the financial report of the city would have been forthcoming last August, but after being turned over to the Finance Committee of the City Trustees by the Clerk of the Board, at the July, 1902, meeting, it has never been heard of since although the end of another fiscal year is rapidly drawing to a close.

The law has given the people some rights in affairs municipal and one of its wisest provisions is to make it compulsory on the part of all Boards of Town Trustees to require to be published each year the Clerk's financial statement after its approval by those bodies.

There is no reasonable excuse for the President of the Board and his Finance Committee overlooking this important provision of the law. If these public officials do not know the law that guides them in the performance of their sworn duty have they not a paid attorney, appointed and salaried by themselves, who can put them right on the requirements of the law?

For several years the municipal tax has been a third higher than in previous years and the revenue derived from the slot machines, saloons, stores, etc., in the shape of licenses, has almost doubled of late. The taxes were increased three years ago for the purpose of providing a sinking fund to be applied toward the erection of a new City Hall, but for aught the taxpayers know, in the absence of an authorized annual statement showing the financial condition of the city, there is no legal proof that such a fund is in existence.

As every taxpayer in town is interested in its financial condition and has a legal right to know where the public funds come from and whither they go the people would like to know why President Poppe and his Finance Committee are suppressing from the public eye the yearly financial reports of this city.

J. E. POPPE, the President of the Board of City Trustees, again "took the bit between his teeth" at the meeting of that body on Wednesday night of last week.

During the session of the City Trustees on the evening in question Trustee Hotz, mindful of the interests of the taxpayers, made a motion that the five Meridian Hydro-carbon arc lights, erected on the several streets of the town by that company some months ago for trial only, be removed, as they had been rejected at a previous meeting.

The motion was duly seconded by Trustee Ciucci. President Poppe at this juncture came to the rescue of the company that is endeavoring to foist these particular street lights on the town, and refused point blank to put the motion to the house. By doing this he not only violated his oath of office and threw parliamentary rules to the winds but brought disgrace upon himself as the chief executive officer of our city, a position that in the past has been filled with dignity, honor and ability by such men as the late M. G. Vallejo, A. F. Haraszthy, J. H. Seipp, Robt. A. Poppe, Fred'k T. Duhring and others.

How striking is the contrast between the dignity and unquestioned ability of these ex-presiding officers of former Boards of Trustees with that of the blustering attitude and rule or ruin methods pursued by the Board's present uncouth presiding officer.

THE contention over the authorship of the new Free Market law that has been waxing hot between our very esteemed contemporaries of Santa Rosa, the Press Democrat and Republican, for several weeks, reached its climax Thursday morning, when the former, figuratively speaking, delivered a knock-out blow that ought to put editor Lemmon out of commission in so far as that controversy is concerned, and will cause him to have a caution for some little time to come. The Press Democrat produced incontrovertible proof, by publishing Diggs' and Dunbar's Free Market bills in parallel columns, that the latter's bill was introduced first and is precisely the same bill, word for word, as that introduced by Mr. Diggs in the Senate the day following the introduction of Mr. Dunbar's bill in the Assembly. Lemmon, true to his name, is always getting squeezed, and that accounts no doubt for the very bad quality of the "Lemmon-aid" that he periodically attempts to force on us other fellows of the sanctum sanctorum in his efforts to help us shape our policy and run our newspapers.

Special Arbor Day

A special Arbor Day was observed in San Jose and Santa Clara last Tuesday in which thousands of the city's residents turned out and planted 2,000 trees amid much enthusiasm.

The planting of two memorial trees in the pretty park was a notable feature of the day at Santa Clara. One was in memory of the Rev. Father Nobili, founder and first president of the Santa Clara College, and the other to commemorate the life of Dr. Arthur W. Saxe, a pioneer settler and physician in the town. Dr. A. E. Osborne, formerly superintendent of the California Home for Feeble-Minded, Eldridge, was chairman at the exercises and he dedicated the two young maples.

A Charming New York Woman's Experience.

Miss Rohrbach, who lives at No. 73 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City, and is Treasurer of the Woman's Progressive Union, wrote the following story of her experience:

I am satisfied that half the doctors do not know what really ails their patients, while you have seen them in a short time. Two years ago I began to feel "run-down," the extreme heat of the summer nearly prostrated me, and when fall came I was ill prepared to take up anew the burdens of life. I had headache, backache and was very nervous; scarcely able to sleep more than two hours at a time. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and was delighted with the result. Within a week I was sleeping splendidly. Continued using the "Favorite Prescription" for eight weeks, and then stopped, for I was perfectly cured. Ever since then your medicine has been my "Favorite Prescription," too. I recommend it to every one. Yours very truly, Miss May Rohrbach. To Dr. R. V. Pierce.

The reason Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts as such a restoring tonic and strength-builder for run-down women is because it fits the needs of the womanly organism. It is not a "patent medicine" in the common view of that term; it is a ready-to-use prescription put up under the direction of Dr. R. V. Pierce, who, many years ago, used this medicine in his large practice in all those cases where his women patients were run-down, nervous, or suffering from considerable pain at stated periods, due to irregularity of the function of the female organs. It is not like many of the so-called tonics advertised these days, because it does not depend upon alcohol or upon any narcotic for its effect. It is purely vegetable in its composition and without alcohol.

Chas. Boykin, of Acme, La., Concordia Parish, speaking of his wife's experience, says:

I write you thanking you for the benefit of your wonderful "Favorite Prescription," and also the "Golden Medical Discovery." I find that your remedies have done more good than all the others that I have used. I thought my wife would die at times; now am able to say that through you and your medicine we have a fine boy two months old. Weight three days after birth, 18 lbs.

It is a wonder to the people to see my wife going about with a baby. She is able to do her own housework, can walk six miles with baby without stopping and feels as though she could stand all day, so healthy, she can eat anything. Before using your medicine my wife's weight was 122 lbs., and now she is weighing 175 lbs. She only used 12 bottles of your medicine.

My mother-in-law, also my sister, have been cured entirely of uterine trouble by your "Favorite Prescription."

Yours respectfully, C. Chas. Boykin. To Dr. R. V. Pierce.

The first experience of maternity is often followed by a quick convalescence which gives no hint of loss of strength as the result of the trying ordeal. Youth with its undiminished vitality makes for the young mothers' health and happiness. But later maternal experiences bring a different result. The care of a family, multiplied household duties, and very often weakness caused by womanly disease, tend to prolong the time of convalescence and to make convalescence a slow and weary process.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription prepares the wife for maternity. It promotes the appetite, cures nervousness and sleeplessness, and gives a consciousness of buoyant health. It gives great muscular strength and elasticity and makes the baby's advent practically painless. It is unexcelled as a strengthening tonic for mothers during the period of convalescence.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women. "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's is purely vegetable and will not harm the most delicate system. It is guaranteed to contain no alcohol, no narcotics of any kind.

GIVEN AWAY. No charge is made for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is sent FREE on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing ONLY. It is the best modern medical work, containing more than one thousand large pages of valuable advice and information. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.

High School Notes.

Miss Edna Thomas was elected President of the Croquet Club. Mr. Kostick paid the high school a short visit last Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Nellie Gordenker made a visit with friends in San Francisco last Sunday.

Miss Lelah Reynolds made a short visit with her parents at Berkeley last week.

The base ball club is now at work on their domains, and with a little more industry the diamond will be as fine as conditions will admit.

A very pleasing entertainment is being planned by the young ladies and gentlemen of the high school at which they promise a jolly good time.

The high school pupils have been busily engaged in improving the grounds during recesses and after school hours. The work on the tennis court is completed for the season and a splendid croquet ground is now ready for use.

Miss Agnes R. Jewett, the vice-principal of the high school, made a visit of several days in Berkeley last week to attend the meeting of an educational association of which she is a member. She returned home Tuesday evening, having secured a two day's leave of absence from her school duties.

THE WOMANS' CLUB.

Its Recent Entertainment a Financial Success.

The entertainment and hop given by the Woman's Club on Friday evening of last week was a financial as well as a social success. At 8:30 o'clock Union Hall was well filled and the entertainment opened with a vocal solo, "Doth Thou Knowest the Land," from Mignon, which was beautifully rendered by Miss Claire Hope.

Mr. Clark Gains followed with a vocal selection, which was well received.

The laughable farce entitled "Box and Cox" was the hit of the evening and was cleverly carried out by Messrs. Hocker and Smith in the title roles, and Miss Nellie Gordenker as "Mrs. Bouncer."

After the play little Ramona Gracie sang in costume, "I Guess You'd Better Hush, Hush, Hush." The entertainment concluded with two vocal selections which were well sung by Miss Ella Bethune.

After the hall had been cleared dancing was announced and continued until 2 A. M. the music being furnished by the Pauli orchestra. The coffee booth, presided over by members of the club, was well patronized.

MALONCHI HAS BECOME DEMENTED

Found Wandering in the Mountains Near Hooker Falls—Sent to an Asylum

P. Malonchi, who for eight or ten years made his home on the Nichelini ranch several miles north of this place, was captured by Deputy Sheriff Ryan last Wednesday, while wandering aimlessly in the mountains this side of Hooker Falls. The man was brought to town by the officer and locked up on suspicion of being demented. Thursday morning Malonchi was taken to Santa Rosa for examination before a commission of lunacy.

Several months ago Malonchi left or was enticed away from the Nichelini ranch, since which time he has been living in this place.

Malonchi, who possessed a couple of thousand dollars when he took up his abode at the Nichelini ranch, entered into a written agreement with Florentino Nichelini, wherein the Nichelini's were to house, feed, clothe and care for him during his life time. In return he made a will giving the money to Mrs. Nichelini after his death. In conformity with this agreement, which is on record in the County Auditor's office, the Nichelini's had provided for the man for many years.

Seized with a sudden desire he left the ranch one day last summer, came to town and refused to return. Later on he commenced two actions in the Superior Court of this county to set aside the agreement entered into with Nichelini and to gain possession of a thousand dollar certificate of deposit on the Sonoma Valley Bank and a thousand dollar note executed by J. Chauvet of Glen Ellen, which the plaintiff had turned over to Florentino Nichelini for safe keeping. These suits are still pending in the Superior Court.

Malonchi has been acting queerly the past few months and when he suddenly disappeared from town the day before his apprehension by Deputy Sheriff Ryan his action did not in the least surprise those who knew him. He at first took to the hills back of the Mountain Cemetery, where he passed Tuesday night. The next morning he made his way to the place where he was discovered.

Another account of Malonchi's wanderings, and probably the true one, is that after he disappeared from town Tuesday afternoon he made his way directly to his old home on the Nichelini ranch, where he was taken in and cared for by the aged parents of young Mr. Nichelini, who was absent from home at the time. The next morning Malonchi appeared to fear pursuit and when he detected the approach of the officer fled from the shelter of the house and took refuge in a wooded canyon near by and where he was subsequently found by the officer.

Malonchi was taken to Santa Rosa on Thursday, examined by a Lunacy Commission and committed to the State Hospital at Ukiah.

The Whist Club.

The Ladies' Whist Club met at the pretty home of Mrs. Susie Enos on the corner of Broadway and Maple streets last Saturday afternoon and a joyous time was had by all present. The exciting game of High Five was indulged in by the members and Mrs. Hartley Gottenberg was the lucky winner of the first prize, which consisted of a handsome box of writing paper. Mrs. O. B. Shaw won the second prize, a very pretty silver ink eraser. The booby prize went to Miss Julie Gracie and the second booby was given to Miss Annie Pemberton. At 5:30 P. M. supper was announced by Mrs. Enos, the hostess, and all repaired to the dining room which was beautifully decorated with fruit blossoms and violets, and where an elegant spread was laid. A handsome bouquet of maiden hair fern adorned the center of the large dining table, which was elegantly set with rare old china, cut glass and silver. Humorous stories were told and sparkling conversation indulged in until 6:30 P. M., at which time the party came to an end, each member voting it to be the most delightful affair of the season.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Train Stalled.

The afternoon train of the California Northwestern railway, which left here at 3:25 Wednesday afternoon became stalled near the draw bridge below Schellville by the breaking of an axle on the forward truck of the baggage car. The car with which engineer Sam Lewis makes his runs undoubtedly prevented a serious accident. The passengers were transferred from the coaches to the box car used for transporting milk and were hauled to Tiburon by the engine without further mishap. The stalled train was left behind and it took an engine and a crew of section men several hours to push it back to a siding at Schellville station. The returning evening train arrived in town two hours and fifteen minutes behind schedule time owing to the breakdown.

Fractured His Leg.

H. C. Manuel, for many years a basalt block contractor in this place and father of Mrs. Eph Cutter of Glen Ellen, met with a serious accident in San Francisco last Monday morning. With a companion Mr. Manuel was driving along the city front when the horse took fright and ran away. Both occupants were thrown out of the wagon and fell heavily to the ground. Mr. Manuel had his leg fractured, while his companion was badly bruised about the head and face.

Young Woman's Tragic End

Miss May Weston, a young lady twenty-one years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Weston, committed suicide at her home in Cloverdale on Sunday morning by shooting herself through the heart with a pistol. OIL FOR THE COUNTY ROADS.

First Sprinkling Experiment to be Tried Between Melitta and Caliente.

Owing to the efforts of Supervisor Blair Hart and Will Ashe, backed up by the Dunbar Improvement Club, the first experiment to be tried with oil for road sprinkling in Sonoma county will be made between Melitta, six miles this side of Santa Rosa, and Agua Caliente, a distance of twelve miles.

The Board of Supervisors let the contract last Thursday to De Camp & Moser for the oil to be furnished and applied to the road at the rate of $1.47 per barrel of forty-two gallons, which payment is to be in full for all services rendered, material furnished and labor performed.

This piece of road is to be rendered free of dust and the oil applied at such intervals as necessary until the rainy season sets in next fall. The oil will be the best crude petroleum and will be applied according to the De Camp process, which has been tried and proved successful in several counties of the State.

A special meeting of the Dunbar Improvement Club will be held in the Dunbar school house Saturday afternoon, March 14th, at 2 o'clock, to discuss the rural delivery question.

C. T. Kahn, who has a large wholesale cigar establishment in San Francisco is paying this burg a visit with a view of increasing his already large trade in his line of business.

M. E. Skahan is in the city again selecting more goods for his new store. He is doing a fine business here and gaining many new customers. Hitherto many families have been sending to the city for their supplies and had to accept whatever sent to them. Now they have the privilege of examining and choosing for themselves. Instead of the mountain going to Mahomet, Mahomet has come to the mountain. This store is really a rancher's exchange and all appreciate the advantage of having a place where they can get groceries at city prices in exchange for their produce.

This is an enterprising valley. The spring work is being pushed right along. While driving up to Kenwood a few days ago I particularly admired the Behler home—its neat and prosperous appearance. The Behler family is one of the early settlers of this valley. They have lived on the same place for over thirty years. This quiet, pleasant little nook is the birthplace of five children—three enterprising, energetic sons and two pretty, charming daughters. The latter are happily married and settled in homes of their own in the city. The two eldest sons, Ben and Charley, are in business in San Francisco, but often visit their early home—there is something in our mountain air that lures one to greater efforts, strengthens weakened nerves and builds up shattered constitutions. The mother is a dear, lovable, kindly woman. Her household and her immediate family circle are emphatically her kingdom. When my heart yearns for the Fatherland I am comforted and soothed by a visit to this typical German home—surrounded by vine-clad hills and a yard over-flowing with bright-hued flowers, where German thrift and neatness predominates. Will, the youngest son, lives with his mother. He has a wiry frame, indicating both nervous and muscular force. His highly cultivated lands speak volumes for his energy and industry. He is a great favorite with the local buds, a gentleman in every way.
